What is Wrong with Archive.is?

I don't know what is going on, but it is taking hours for archive.is to save a page. This is true of news links and twitter links. I tried to reach out to archive.is about the slow downs and someone mentioned it might be because of bots in the queue. So, this suddenly became a problem? I don't get it. Regardless, it has caused me to slowdown on posting to my blog. What I will do in the future is post my article with whatever links I have and then go back later and add the archived links as they finish up. Otherwise, I'm going to be days behind every news story. If you have any info on how to fix this problem, please email me: tonyodarg@gmail.com. Thanks!
